- ✚ Every year in the United States, 2 to 3 of every 1,000 children are born with hearing loss (CDC).
- ✚ Hearing loss is one of the most common congenital birth defects, yet nearly all parents of children with hearing loss have typical hearing, and no experience with the implications of hearing loss (CDC, 2010).
- ✚ Higher levels of family involvement in promoting children's communication are associated with enhanced child language outcomes (Watkin et al., 2007).
- ✚ The expertise of the provider, including knowledge and skills that are specific to working with children who are deaf or hard of hearing and their families, is widely recognized as a key component of providing quality services (JCIH, 2013; Moeller et al., 2013).

Director's Message

I recently heard the phrase, "The road makes the ride." ...what a ride the past year has been. Hand-N-Hand's 2020 road trip was paved with twists, turns, and traffic lights. In March 2020, we came upon a red light which stopped in-person programs due to Covid 19.

In January 2021, we got a green light to re-open in-person services and currently we are proceeding under a flashing yellow light...I'm happy to say our 2021 road trip has been more enjoyable thus far!

As we enter our 19th year, Hand-N-Hand continues to be a stopover for many families as they navigate their hearing journey. We aim to make their ride a simple one!

Thank you for taking a moment to read the Hand-N-Hand Happenings Newsletter and we look forward to your support through our Early Deaf Ed Campaign.

Make a Great Day,
Jenny Geiken

The most important role for the family of an infant who is deaf or hard of hearing is to love, nurture, and communicate with the infant..... This experience can be enhanced when families choose to become involved with parental support groups, people who are deaf or hard of hearing, and/or their children's deaf or hard-of-hearing peers. ~ JCH 2007

Honored to support our friends at Hand-N-Hand

GREEN BAY – Because hearing is so important to a child’s early development, BayCare Clinic Ear, Nose & Throat is pleased to provide financial support for a local nonprofit organization offering specialized programs to deaf and hard-of-hearing children and their families.

BayCare Clinic Ear, Nose & Throat applauds the role Hand-N-Hand of Northeastern Wisconsin plays in providing specialized support and facilitating resources for area families that have children experiencing hearing loss.

“It’s important that the great work done by Hand-N-Hand is supported by medical providers that are specialized in the medical and surgical management of ear issues,” says Dr. David G. Grossman, an otolaryngologist with BayCare Clinic Ear, Nose, and Throat. “That includes easily treatable conditions like ear infections and wax build-up, and more challenging conditions like balance issues, cholesteatomas and hearing loss.”

Concerned that your child might have hearing loss? Consult an ear, nose and throat specialist and watch for these common signs:

In babies:

- Isn’t startled by loud noises.
- After 6 months of age, the baby still doesn’t turn toward the source of a sound.
- By age 1, the child hasn’t said single words (like “dada” or “mama”).
- The baby turns his or her head when you enter the line of sight but not when you call out his or her name without the baby seeing you.

In children:

- Speech is delayed or unclear.
- Doesn’t follow directions.
- Often says, “huh?”
- Turns the volume too high on television, computers, headphones, earbuds or other media.

Some types of hearing loss can be corrected through medications or surgery. That’s why it’s vital for children suspected of having hearing loss or related issues to be evaluated by an ear, nose and throat specialist.

“Make an appointment with your ear, nose, throat specialist and he or she will evaluate your child’s ear health and determine an individualized course of action for treatment or for long-term management,” Gossman says.

Audiologists offer valuable expertise as well.

“When it comes to determining the proper hearing devices with the best functionality and satisfaction for children, audiologists can help,” says Dr. Andrea Federman, an audiologist with the Hearing Center BayCare Clinic. “We work in close partnership with ear, nose and throat specialists to provide comprehensive care for hearing issues.”

Submitted by David Gossman MD, FACS, a board-certified otolaryngologist with BayCare Clinic Ear, Nose, and Throat.
